History of collaboration

The University of Puerto Rico Mayagüez Campus (UPRM) established coordination and collaboration with governmental agencies, criminal justice agencies and community and non-profit, non-governmental victim service providers through the implementation of Campus 07 Flagship of the University of Puerto Rico. Various university departments, faculty members and committees had already worked collaboratively with non-profit, non-governmental organizations in the past. Through the implementation of the Program to Reduce Violent Crimes Against Women on Campus, the University has been able to develop an institutional wide effort and impact the University as a whole. On the other hand, through this collaboration, the community-based organizations expand their resources and are regionally recognized as important alternatives for women who survive crimes against women. Most of the partners are also members of the Coordinating Committee (CC). The CC not only provides a community response to violent crimes against women on campus, but as a team they are also involved in the planning, development and implementation of the project.

Commitment and Participation

We hereby agree to continue a collaborative partnership to ensure the safety of the victims of violent crimes against women in the UPRM and to support its prevention and educational activities related to gender and violence against women issues. We have given feedback and support in developing this application. Members of the Coordinating Committee will participate in implementing project activities in coordination with the project staff.

Hogar Clara Lair, the first nonprofit organization that provides services exclusively to battered women and their children in the region is committed to keeping women safe and holding offenders accountable for their violence. They provide shelter, support, and advocacy to victims of domestic violence. They also provide training, outreach, and education to the community, including police officers and criminal justice system. Hogar Clara Lair and the UPRM have a history of collaboration with UPRM Project SIEMPRE VIVAS, a program that provide services by support group to survivals. Hogar Clara Lair is committed to working with UPR Mayaguez Campus and participating on the VAW Coordinating Committee (CC). They will be involved in:

- Coordination with the advocate, provide shelter, support and advocacy to students victims of domestic violence.
